

END THE WAR ON DRUGS

RESTORE FREEDOM, SAVE LIVES

For decades, the War on Drugs has fueled mass incarceration, government overreach, and violent black markets—all while failing to curb addiction or keep communities safe. Millions of lives have been ruined, families torn apart, and resources wasted on policies that criminalize personal choices rather than addressing the root causes of drug abuse.

- ✓ Nearly half of federal prisoners are locked up for non-violent drug offenses.
- ✓ Drug cartels and street gangs thrive in black markets created by government bans.
- ✓ Ending prohibition allows for safe, regulated access and medical treatment for those in need.

THE LIBERTARIAN SOLUTION

The government should not control what people choose to consume. We support the full decriminalization of drug use and the expungement of non-violent drug convictions. Rather than treating drug use as a crime, we advocate for policies that promote harm reduction, education, and voluntary treatment programs to help individuals struggling with addiction.

- ✓ Portugal decriminalized drugs, and it worked!
- ✓ Cannabis is already legal in more than half the US states.
- ✓ Ending the war on drugs will save taxpayers billions.

By ending prohibition, we can save lives, reduce crime, and focus on real solutions like harm reduction and voluntary treatment. Libertarians believe in personal responsibility and freedom—the government has no right to tell people what they can or cannot put into their own bodies.
